We set a clock on bargaining, and we negotiated down to the last minute to reach a deal that doesn't leave our members behind.

But this government wasn't willing to treat workers the respect they deserve.

You – and all workers in this country – deserve fair wages and decent working conditions.

That's why tomorrow at 12:01 AM ET, April 19, PSAC members in the Treasury Board and CRA bargaining units will be on strike. Please prepare to report to your closest picket line in the morning. This is our moment to show the employer that we will not back down from the fight for a fair deal for workers.

You can attend the nearest picket line and scan in with your personalized barcode or PSAC ID when you arrive. If you don't have this information, you can simply report to a picket line and a member of the PSAC team onsite will help you sign in manually. Your PSAC regional office may have already reached out to you about specific details for a picket line near you.

This will be one of the largest strikes in Canada's history. Together, we will be on the picket line, side by side, fighting for what's right – what all workers deserve.

Your bills. Your families. Your futures can't wait. Tomorrow, we show them workers won't wait.
